

Seven-Minute Setup Guide: Remarketing in AdWords

A customer comes to your site, looks around, but doesn't purchase. Instead of leaving a return visit to chance, bring that customer back to your site with remarketing.

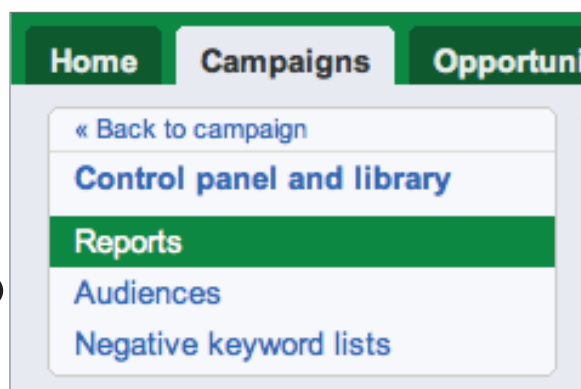

By showing your ads to customers who have already visited your site, you can drive more sales and boost ROI. No matter your marketing goals, you can create specific ads to remind customers that you have exactly what they're looking for.

Setting up a remarketing campaign is easy.

Make sure you or someone nearby can access your site's code, and you'll be done in about seven minutes.

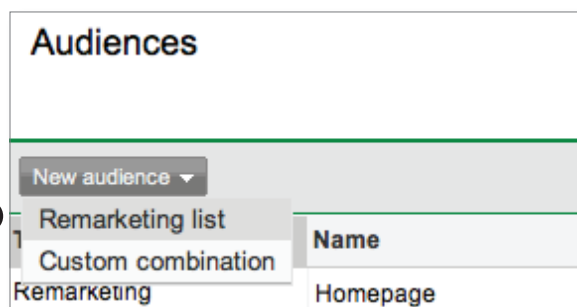

Before you begin, decide who you want to show your ads to. For your first remarketing campaign, we recommend starting with everyone who viewed your homepage. From there, you can get more specific with your targeting. For example, you can easily exclude people who've already purchased, or show them different ads, say, for a rewards program or a discount off of their second purchase. Get ideas for the different lists you might create in the List Strategies section of the AdWords Help Center at <http://goo.gl/e507i>.

Let's get started!

Here's how to set up a remarketing list:

- 1 Find Audiences Tab
Sign in to your AdWords account and click the Campaigns tab. Then click the Control Panel & Library link in the left navigation bar and select Audiences.

- 2 Select Remarketing List
Click the New audience drop-down menu and select Remarketing list.

Add the remarketing code to all your pages visited by users whom you'd like to add to this list. To access the code, click the link in the Tags / Rules section.

Select from existing tags

Save Cancel

3 Describe List
Enter a descriptive Remarketing list name (for example, "homepage visitors"), optional Description, and Membership duration (we recommend starting with the default of 30 days).

4 Tags Create new remarketing tag

Add the remarketing code to all your pages visited by users whom you'd like to add to this list. To access the code, click the link in the Tags / Rules section.

Select from existing tags

4 Create Remarketing Tag
In the Tags section, select Create new remarketing tag if you want to add a new tag to your site. You can also use an existing tag. For example, if you have conversion tracking installed, you could use your conversion tag to create a custom combination for people who visited your site, excluding those who have already made a purchase. When you're done, click Save.

Copy the code and paste it into applicable pages on your site, between the &lt;body&gt; tags, closer to the &lt;/body&gt; tag. For example, place this tag into the code for your homepage if you want to show remarketing ads to anyone who visited your homepage. For more information on how to paste the code, check the AdWords Conversion Tracking Setup Guide, which includes a section on how to add a tag to a website.

And just like that, you've created your first remarketing list! The only thing left to do is to target ads to this list by adding your list to a campaign. You might want to create a new campaign just for remarketing so you can easily manage your remarketing budget separately.

Here's how to add your remarketing list to a new campaign:

1 Select New Campaign

Go to the Campaigns tab of your account and select "New campaign."

2 Edit Campaign Settings

Fill in a descriptive campaign name (for example, "Remarketing") and select your location and language. In the Networks section, select "Let me choose." Deselect the Google search check box to ensure your ads will only appear on the Google Display Network. Under Display, select, "Relevant pages only on the placements and audiences I manage." Under the Devices section, choose the default "All available devices" for maximum exposure.

3 Set Bids and Budget

Scroll to the Bidding section. You can choose to bid manually or automatically. We suggest automatic bidding, where Google will automatically adjust your bids to get the most clicks possible from your budget. You can set a max CPC to control the cost of individual clicks. Remember that with remarketing, you're reaching people already interested in your product or service, so it makes sense to set a slightly higher maximum bid than you'd set for other Display Network campaigns. When you're done, enter your daily remarketing budget in the Budget section.

4 Save Your Settings

Scroll to the bottom of the page and hit Save and Continue.

You're almost ready to turn your campaign on. The final step is to create custom ads to show to the people who visited your site.

5 Create ad group

Name this ad group

An ad group contains one or more ads and a set of related keywords. For best results

5 Create a New Ad Group

After you've saved your campaign settings, you'll be prompted to create a new ad group, just as you would for a Display Network campaign.

You can use both text and display ads with remarketing, and it's a good practice to have both types of ads to ensure that you reach a larger number of users. Remember that with remarketing, you're reaching people who have showed an interest in your product or service, so you might want to include a special offer in your ad to encourage return visits. Later, if you choose to tag individual pages on your site, you can create customized messages based on the pages your visitors viewed. For example, if someone browsed your page displaying your underwater camera models, you can show them an ad specific to underwater cameras. And don't forget that you can create free custom display ads quickly and easily using Display Ad Builder.

6 Save Ad Group

Leave the Keywords and Placement sections blank, then hit Save ad group.

7 Add audiences

Select audiences to reach people based on their interests. Learn about audience strategies.

7 Add Remarketing List

Almost there. The last step is to add your remarketing list to this ad group. Click the Audiences tab, then Add audiences. Select Remarketing lists, then pick the remarketing list you just created (in our example, "homepage visitors"). Click Save.

And you're done! Your ads are now eligible to be shown to users who have previously visited your site.
